O'CONNOR PLUMBING AND HALL OF FAMER
JOHN RIGGINS ANNOUNCE MARKETING PARTNERSHIP O'CONNOR LAUNCHES RESIDENTIAL DIVISION AS DEMAND EXPLODES!

MCLEAN, VA - O'Connor Plumbing announced a partnership with Washington Redskins legend, John Riggins, as the company expands into providing plumbing solutions to residential customers. O'Connor Plumbing is family owned and operated since 1949 serving the Washington DC Metro area primarily in a commercial capacity. O'Connor is widely known and respected in the industry as a company built on a foundation of integrity and quality at a reasonable price and they will now bring that expertise to the residential market.

As John Riggins moved into his newly built home, he realized he needed expert plumbing solutions. Former Redskins teammate and O'Connor Plumbing Business Development Director, Ron Saul, recommended O'Connor Plumbing as a company that would do an honest job done right at a reasonable price. "I had some serious plumbing needs and I know just enough to be dangerous" Riggins said, "O'Connor Plumbing blew me away with how they were able to diagnose my needs and problems and explain them in a way that even I could understand. They got it done right the first time and I was highly impressed with how they performed their job."

Growing up huge Burgundy and Gold football fans, the O'Connor family always admired the way John Riggins played the game and carried himself. "Riggo is respected as one of the greatest football players of all-time and we all know he was a workhorse that could always be counted on. He was fearless and got the job done yet always had a humility about himself. The more we got to know John personally the more we realized how aligned we were with him in how we approach our business with all of our customers. Integrity and respect matter!" said Tom O'Connor, President, O' Connor Plumbing.

O'Connor has specialized in commercial service and renovation plumbing solutions. Through the quality of work and their reputation, they started receiving requests to provide residential services. "I have worked for companies whose mission is to upsell the consumer and charge as much money as they can per job," said Chief Production Officer, Tommy O'Connor. "This is what motivated me to want to start a residential division that treats the customer fairly, and does an honest job at reasonable price." "O'Connor Plumbing will stand behind our name and reputation we have built going back to my grandfather in 1949," said Kevin O'Connor, Chief Financial Officer.

Added Riggins, "I don't lend my name to many businesses. The O'Connor family approached me with their plan to launch a division bringing their services to residential customers. I know firsthand O'Connor stands for honesty, integrity, and a job well done. I want people to know there are good companies out there that you can depend on to get the job done right at a reasonable price," said Riggins.
